

AGRICULTURE

A Word for Weeds.

Our neighbor has just made an argument for weeds which should not go unpublished. "I let them grow in my garden," he says, "to keep off the hot sun and the bugs from my cucumbers. I would not, indeed, let enough grow to exactly smother the vines but enough to keep off the insects, and to shade the ground and keep it cool." As he said this, the muscles of his face seemed a little disturbed, as though he half-distrusted his own theory, but he kept his countenance quite well.

What a dunce! Even if the leaves shade the ground, what do the roots do meanwhile? Pump it of its moisture and send the vapor off into mid air, rendering the soil dryer than it would have been if exposed to the full rays of the sun. Let any one try the experiment and he will be satisfied. And then, as to protecting the vines from bugs, we very much question it. No, no. The only rational way to garden successfully, is to keep down the weeds. If the ground is suffering from the drought, run the cultivator through it, keep the hoed bright, and this will keep the soil in the best possible condition for absorbing the nightly dews. Cultivate the cucumbers well surround them with boxes, and they will soon run away from the insects.—American Agriculturist.

Barrels for Fruit.

Everything in contact with fruit should be clean and sweet, and the vessel in which it is placed should be dry and tight. Old flour barrels should not be used, unless well washed and dried, as the particles of flour left in the barrel will mould and impart to the fruit an unpleasant odor and flavor. Old lime barrels, it is said, are excellent for this purpose—the lime absorbing the vapor and gases.—If this is so, a little fresh slaked lime scattered on the bottom, sides and top of the barrel, would be beneficial.

Kidney-Worms in Swine.

The Germantown Telegraph says that this disease may generally be known by the animal appearing weak across the loins, and sometimes by a weakness in one or both hind legs. As soon as these symptoms appear, give the animal corn that is soaked in lye of wood ashes or strong soap-suds, and at the same time rub the loins with turpentine. An Ohio farmer cures this disease by giving one ounce of copperas daily, for six or eight days dissolved in warm water, and mixed with two quarts of corn meal and dish-water.

The Eyes of Horses and Cattle.

In the New England Farmer, a correspondent gives the following remedy, when horses or cattle injure their eyes so as to bring on a white substance or film. He says: "Take fresh butter, newly churned; melt about a tablespoonful, and turn it into the ear opposite the eye injured, being careful to hold the ear tight together, so that they shall not be a violent shake of the head, throw it out of the ear." This remedy, he says, may be safely applied, if you do not use them when the film is coming off.

Heaves in Horses.

A correspondent asks for a cure for heaves in horses. I will send you one that a friend of mine gave me some time ago, which he says he has tried to his satisfaction, and thinks it a certain cure, and I believe him to be a man of veracity. If you think best, can publish it in the Farmer.

One pound of antimony, half a pound of sulphur, half a pound nitre, one-fourth pound resin; powder fine and mix together. Give a half a tablespoonful twice a week, mixed with his food. I cannot vouch for the above not having tried it.—Henry Cox, Wheatland N. Y.

To Kill Vermin on Cattle or Fowls.

A writer in the New England Farmer says: "Take common lamp oil and rub it well back of the ears and all down the back. Do this once a week, and the vermin will disappear. It is safe. Tobacco will kill lice, but should be used cautiously. Rub lamp oil on the back of the head, under the wings, and over the posterior of any fowl once a month, and it will clear out all lice."

Tight Bars for Hay.

No practical and observing farmer will say that his hay is kept better or sweeter in a tight bar, than in one which admits some air between the boards. Hay will prove musty in very tight bars unless it has been so much dried as to injure it. In common bars that have had two day's drying will keep well though put in a large mow, provided that the air may come in at the sides.

They are not experienced farmers who double board their bars, or put on clapboards to make them air tight, it is also injurious to stock if they are in that portion of the barn, it is suffocating in the summer, it is injurious to horses and they will not do well without being well aired.—Massachusetts Ploverman.

Bushy Tomatoes.

Those who love good tomatoes, will take pains to cultivate them so as to insure them as may be in their full perfection. There is no fruit that delights more in the air and sunshine than the tomato. They should have, therefore, abundance of room, and the vines be sustained from falling to the earth. Stout brush firmly set around the plants answers the purpose better than any other method.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of plain common sense, they may be able to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr. Hostetter has introduced to this country a preparation bearing his name, which is not a new medicine, but one that has been tried for years, giving satisfaction to all who have used it. The Bitters operate powerfully upon the stomach, bowels, and liver, restoring them to a healthy and vigorous action, and thus, by the simple process of strengthening nature, enable the system to triumph over disease.

For the cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Bilious Complaints, arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels, producing Cramps, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c., these Bitters have no equal. Diarrhoea, dysentery or flux, so generally connected with new settlers, and caused principally by the change of water and diet, will be speedily regulated by a brief use of this preparation.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.

Prepared and sold by HOSTETTER & SMITH, Pittsburgh, Pa., and sold by all druggists, grocers, and dealers generally throughout the United States, Canada, South America, and Germany.

DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS

Above we present you with a likeness of DR. MORSE—the inventor of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. This philanthropist has spent the greater part of his life in traveling, having visited Europe, Asia, and Africa, as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it is in this way that the Indian Root Pills were discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that the success arose from the PURITY OF THE BLOOD—his own strength and health and life depended upon this vital principle. When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood in action, becomes thick, corrupted, and diseased, thus causing all pains, sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted, our health we are deprived of, and nature is assisted in throwing off the stagnant humor, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be lost. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, which will draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out of the system by the natural or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fact is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills which consist in purifying the blood; the system of all impurities, and cannot pass by the other outlets, are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels. From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, but become united with the blood, for they draw every part and impurity out of the system, cleanse the system from all impurities, and give life to the body, which is the blood, become perfectly healthy; consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system, for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.
